FitLogistix is the vision and creation of Danielle Evans and Joelle McCasland. Best of friends for the past 21 years, they have worked as colleagues and as competitors building individual reputations as the top fitness sales and service professionals in the markets they serve. Sharing a love of fitness and a passion for customer service, each has been consistently recognized by their employers and peers alike for their individual successes and achievements. Believing that by combining their talents and resources, they could offer their clients a truly “best in class”, customer service based, complete fitness solution, they formed a partnership and FitLogistix was born.

We have carefully selected our manufacturing partners for their innovation, technology, sleek design, ease of use, value and warranty. — Danielle Evans & Joelle McCasland, FitLogistix Founders
