

AMEENAH FULLER, MPP
Masters of Public Policy
Publisher Looking-In Publication
E-mail: ameenahfuller@ymail.com

Ameenah Fuller, MPP

An experienced Business/Government Consultant and Publisher of Looking-In Politics. I hold a Masters' of Arts in Public Policy and I am Chief Executive Officer of a business consulting firm based in Rancho Cucamonga, California. I've worked to recover funds for the Medicare program with over 25 years experience providing compliance measures with recommendations to administrators and corporate staff in California. Last year, we recovered over 140 million dollars for the Medicare program. I've been a businesswoman for over 25 years operating and managing a consulting business, which requires daily organizational planning and budgetary management.

Award winning self-publisher of Looking-In Publication operations and distribution of a quarterly magazine called Looking-In Politics focused on political and community issues in California. Looking-In Politics highlights the issues that affect constituents in their districts. Public relations and Public speaking experience on radio and television programs. Recently, I was acknowledged for advocacy and efforts to support senior's rights in the number #1 best selling book on Amazon "Why Wait? The Baby boomers Guide to Preparing Emotionally, Financially, and Legally for a Parent's Death." I was a candidate for California State Senate District 23 in 2014. Other political experience include, legislative aide, appointment to the California Association of Health Facilities Governmental Relations Quality Operations and Services Sub-Committee, Former Vice-Chair of the African American Caucus. I am current member of California Democratic Party Affirmative Action Standing Committee and former Vice- President of California Democratic Party Business and Professional Caucus and African American Caucus.

Toastmasters International Area Director- Experienced public speaker on politics, public policy issues and women in leadership roles. Other topics include senior rights, economic inequality and affirmative action.

Founder of National Women's Professional Caucus:

National Women's Professional Caucus was established to promote professional women to reach their highest degree of success. We are a non-partisan group with the primary mission to promote professional growth and development in public service and services for women to advance their career goals and objectives. We promote women who seek to run for office in state and local races. We support and train women to serve on governor appointed boards. The skill sets we promote provide better opportunity in a global society.

NWPC supports women to reach their height of success by promoting other women to reach their height of success. We offer valuable workshops to educate and train women in the fields of Medical Advocates for Women, Legal Advocates, Financial Advisers, Campaign Training, Board and Appointment Training, Public Speaking, and Professional Development. We support a strong network of women dedicated to the success of professional women.