

I have a company called BioNeurix that I sell three of their products.

Amoryn - Natural Antidepressant- Mood Booster - Supplement for Depression and & Anxiety

Seredyn - Natural Anti-Panic/Anxiety - Immediate Anxiety Relief, Natural Anxiety Remedy - My #1 Seller, Makes Amoryn and Mellodyn work better

Mellodyn - Natural Sleep Aid & Insomnia Remedy

My Testimonial for Amoryn - In 2010 I had several traumas within one month. The grief was overwhelming. I had deaths and several other losses. I had a miscarriage of my first child which added a hormonal component (not to mention 30 pounds) to the emotional impact. For those of you who know me I a generally an upbeat and happy person. I found myself waking up crying, crying on the way to work, crying over my patients and c rying myself to sleep. I was unable to stop and was frustrated that after about 2 months it was not getting better. I am strong mentally, but I could not redirect my thoughts and emotions. I have my mother to thank for finding Bioneurix. She did the research to find this company which has helped me and now many of my patients. It takes 6 weeks for Amoryn to fully get into the system, however, after the first week I STOPPED CRYING. After three weeks I was 85% my normal self. I am hugely grateful to Bioneurix for their help. I did not know what to do and going on traditional anti-depressants is not an option for me. Traditional antidepressants have terrible side effects. I no longer have to take Amoryn and I use the Seredyn as needed if I feel stressed. If you or someone you know has gone through a trauma or loss, Amoryn could be a real life saver.

amorYn is not just another supplement...

AMORYN works by increasing the levels of all four of the brain's "feel good" neurotransmitters. By providing an all-natural boost to serotonin, dopamine, norepinephrine, and GABA, the ingredients in AMORYN can help you feel happy, calm, and confident.

The brain produces natural chemical messengers - called neurotransmitters - that send messages from one nerve cell to another. Serotonin is known as the "feel good" neurotransmitter because it plays an important role in the regulation of mood. Low levels of serotonin can cause excessive feelings of sadness and anxiety.

Two other important neurotransmitters - dopamine and norepinephrine - also affect mood. When the brain doesn't produce enough dopamine or norepinephrine, you can feel tired, unmotivated and foggy-headed.

A fourth neurotransmitter, called GABA, helps you relax. When your levels of GABA are low, you will feel anxious and agitated.

Of course, it's normal to feel sad or upset sometimes. But when a chemical imbalance in the brain persists for weeks or months, the result is prolonged depression or anxiety. By working together to boost the activity of serotonin, norepinephrine, dopamine, and GABA, AMORYN's natural ingredients can help improve mood and restore emotional balance.

In fact, the main ingredient in AMORYN, hyperforin extracted from St. John's wort, is clinically proven to relieve both mild-to-moderate and severe depression and anxiety. Hyperforin acts as a natural reuptake inhibitor to increase the active levels of all four mood-related neurotransmitters. AMORYN also contains an amino acid called 5-HTP that has been scientifically demonstrated to increase serotonin levels. As a precursor to serotonin, 5-HTP provides the brain with the "building blocks" needed to produce more serotonin naturally.

And a third ingredient, Rhodiola Rosea extract, raises levels of dopamine and norepinephrine by inhibiting the enzyme that breaks them down, COMT.

Thus, AMORYN's core ingredients function in concert to restore emotional balance. Hyperforin, 5-HTP and Rhodiola - each acting through its own distinct mechanism - work together to enhance the activity of serotonin, dopamine, norepinephrine, and GABA, all four of the neurotransmitters that regulate mood and emotion. No other natural supplement or prescription drug offers this broad spectrum of action provided by AMORYN.

In addition, AMORYN contains mood-related nutrients critical to the maintenance of optimum mental health. The B vitamins in AMORYN - B6, B12, and folic acid - reverse nutritional deficiencies commonly associated with depression. Moreover, they promote the brain's natural production of SAM-e (S-adenosylmethionine), a compound involved in neurotransmitter synthesis that exhibits significant antidepressant effects.

AMORYN also delivers vitamin D3 to help prevent and relieve seasonal depression caused by the shorter, colder days of winter. And multiple clinical trials have shown that the selenium and zinc in AMORYN can improve psychological health for many people.

AMORYN is not a drug and is not intended to diagnose, treat, cure or prevent major depressive disorder, bipolar disorder, dysthymic disorder, generalized anxiety disorder, panic disorder, or any other disease. AMORYN should not be considered equivalent to or a substitute for an FDA-approved drug.
