Introduction

Metis Capital Management, LLC (Metis) is an investment advisor registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission. We are an independent, and partner owned firm, offering only investment advisory services to individuals and families. Our particular focus is on high net worth families, their entities, and trusts.

Brokerage and investment advisory services and fees differ, and it is important for you to understand these differences. We are not a broker-dealer earning commission, we are an investment advisor earning fees. Free, and simple tools are available to research firms and financial professionals at www.investor.gov/CRS, which also provides educational materials about broker-dealers, investment advisers, and investing.

What investment services and advice can you provide me?

We make discretionary investment decisions based on written guidelines, i.e., investment objectives, which established in detail with you, and include your investment goals, risk tolerance, and investment time horizon. These investment objectives will be signed by you and us, can be changed at any time by you, and will be reviewed on a regular basis. Based on the investment objectives we will put together a portfolio of investments in those asset classes that meet the criteria stated in the investment objectives. As part of our standard services, we monitor our client's investments on a daily basis. We do restrict our advice to limited types of investments. We do not impose any minimum requirements to open an account or engage our advisory services.

For further information please see Items 4 and 7 of our ADV, Part 2A brochure which you can find at <https://adviserinfo.sec.gov/firm/summary/133198>.

Conversation Starters / Questions to ask us:

- Given my financial situation, should I choose an investment advisory service?
- What is the advantage for me to choose an investment advisory service?
- How will you choose investments for me?
- What can clients expect from Metis Capital Management?

What fees will I pay?

Our investment advisory fee is an annual percentage of the value of your account. The more assets you have in your account, the greater our fee will be and thus we have an incentive to encourage you to increase the assets in your account. This fee is paid quarterly, in arrears, and is based on the value of the account as per end of the quarter. Additional account expenses depend on the financial institution where you chose to have your account held.

Be aware that fees apply in any case and are unrelated to market movements in either direction. All expenses reduce your investment performance including income. Fees and expenses vary depending on the financial institution you decide to work with, the size of your account as well as additional services being offered. It is important to have a clear understanding of your fees and expenses, as well as their transparency, before entering into a relationship with your financial advisor.

You will pay fees and costs whether you make or lose money on your investments. Fees and costs will reduce any amount of money you make on your investments over time. Please make sure you understand what fees and costs you are paying.

Conversation Starters. Questions to ask us:

- Help me understand how these fees and costs might affect my investments. If I give you $10,000 to invest, how much will go to fees and costs, and how much will be invested for me?
- In what way do advisory fees impact my performance?
- Are fees based on account size?

When we act as your investment adviser, we have to act in your best interest, and not put our interest ahead of yours. At the same time, the way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests. You should understand and ask us about these conflicts because they can affect the investment advice we provide you. Here are some examples to help you understand what this means. If your account value increases, our fee income increases nominally along with it, and the other way around. Assume your account of $100,000 increases by 10% and our fee is 1%. We would charge our fee based on your increased account value of $ 110,000. If your account value decreases by 10% we would charge our fee on your decreased account value of $90,000.

What are conflicts of interest?

Conversation Starters / Questions to ask us:

- How might our conflict of interest affect me, and how will you address them?

How do your financial professionals make money?

Our financial professionals are compensated based on the advisory fees that we receive from your account.

What are your legal obligations to me when acting as my investment adviser? How else does your firm make money and what conflicts of interest do you have?

Metis Capital Management is committed to providing independent, objective, and sophisticated wealth counsel to clients without conflicts of interest. We act as an advocate for our clients. When we act as your investment adviser, we have to act in your best interest and not put our interests ahead of yours. At the same time, the way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests. You should understand and ask us about these conflicts because they can affect the investment advice we provide you. An example to help you understand what this means is that we have an incentive to increase the assets in your account in order to increase our fees.

Metis Capital Management generally recommends either Fidelity Institutional Wealth Services, or TD Ameritrade Institutional to serve as custodian to its clients. This is primarily because Metis Capital esteems that both custodians are reputable, financially solid, and offer either inexpensive or free commissions. These custodians provide us with certain products and services at no cost that benefit us but do not benefit our clients. Certain of these products and services assist us in managing and administering our clients' accounts. The receipt of such creates a conflict of interest as it gives us an incentive to have clients custody their assets with one of these custodians.

Do you or your financial professionals have legal or disciplinary history?

- No.
