

Arnie Streland

*Corporate Executive Lead, Los Angeles
Northrop Grumman, Strategy & Development*

Mr. Streland has over 35 years of experience in space system development. He currently serves as Corporate Lead Executive – Los Angeles where he focuses on the NG relationship with the U.S. Space Force’s Space Systems Command. He has previously held industry positions as Director, Strategy and Business Development for Northrop Grumman Innovation Systems, Orbital ATK and ATK, and as Manager, Space Program Office for Parsons.

Prior to joining industry, Mr. Streland served 26 years active duty in the United States Air Force with a wide range of leadership assignments in space systems engineering and acquisition, including assignments as Deputy Director, Space Based Laser Project Office and Commander, Transformational Satellite Communications Space Group, and Director, Space Superiority Systems Directorate.

Mr. Streland holds a bachelor’s degree in Aerospace Engineering from Boston University and master’s degrees from the University of Southern California, the United States Air Force Air Command and Staff College and the United States Air Force Air War College.

Mr. Streland also serves as the Chair of the National Defense Industrial Association (NDIA) Space Division.

Northrop Grumman solves the toughest problems in space, aeronautics, defense and cyberspace to meet the ever-evolving needs of our customers worldwide. Our 90,000 employees define possible every day using science, technology and engineering to create and deliver advanced systems, products and services.