LIFE TEEN (9th - 12th Grade)

January 23rd: Time to be Bold! Join us tonight as we take a step back in time to early Rome! The year is 68 AD. Romans are hunting down Christians. The only place left for you to hide is in the catacombs (secret underground burial tunnels). Will you enter them? And what will you learn? Don't miss this exciting, one of a kind night!

January 30th: The Feast Wouldn't it be cool if you came to SPY and the night was a feast? Well, that's what we're doing! Heaven is actually described as being a feast. And, do you know what book of the Bible talks a lot about Heaven? The Book of Revelation! If you thought the book of Revelation is about scary, end of the world stuff you need to check out this night!

APPALACHIA 2011: It's time to start thinking about Appalachia 2011! Our tentative date for this year is July 10 - 16th. Our trip's cost is still being calculated. Due to the limited space of this trip, parishioners from St. Peter's will have the chance to register first before registration is opened to people outside of St. Peter's. Look for a sign up form this week at LIFE TEEN!

EDGE (6th - 8th Grade)

January 23rd: No Matter How Small: Join us this night as we head to the Jungle of Naboo to meet Horton! We'll get the chance to do an egg drop and learn the valuable lesson: a person is a person no matter how small!

January 30th: The End or the Beginning?: Tonight, we're looking at the Book of Revelation. A lot of people think the Book of Revelation is about scary, end of the world kind of stuff. But, it's actually a lot different than that. Join us as we play "survivor tag" in a "post apocalyptic" world and do a Bible Study on the Book of Revelation!

Gospel Reflection: Matthew 4:12-23

Children: Why do many people follow Jesus?
Teens: Why did the disciples follow Jesus?
Adults: What might you have to give up in order to follow Jesus more closely?

The New Missal Series, Part Six: 'O Lord, I am not worthy'

By Monsignor Robert J. Jaskot

In the Eucharistic Prayer, the bread and wine have been consecrated, transformed into the body and blood of Christ by the words of institution, spoken by Christ the Great High Priest through the mouth the priest celebrant. In light of love's marvelous exchange, Christ is present, and we are able to be in communion with God and with one another in a singularly profound way. The Communion Rite is comprised of the Lord's Prayer, the Rite of Peace, the Fraction, reception of the body and blood of Jesus, and the Prayer after Communion.

With Christ himself made present, we are able to realize in an intense way the Lord's Prayer. United to Christ in sacrifice, we now join ourselves in the words he gave us. Through God's gracious mercy and love, we are joined as sisters and brothers to Christ who directs his whole self to the Father. The title "Father" then, is not merely about who God is, but also about who we are in relationship to him.

And this is not merely those who are gathered for any particular Mass; it is far greater than that. It extends beyond earth to those gathered in heaven and beyond time to the future, when all is subjected to Christ, who will hand it over to the Father. The petitions in the Lord's Prayer remind us of God's power and providence, especially granting to us our "daily bread," not only life's necessities but the Eucharist, Bread of Life.

The Rite of Peace follows. We are called to make to one another a gesture of the peace that flows from Christ. We cannot be in communion with God if we are not trying to be in communion with our brothers and sisters (1 Jn 4:20). This is not a "free-for-all," but a reminder to us and a ritualized attempt to offer to others the peace Christ promises his apostles: "Peace I leave you, my peace I give you."

Following the Rite of Peace, the people acclaim Christ as the Lamb of God, an image from the ancient Israelites and a title for Christ from the book of Revelation. The priest fractions, or breaks, the large consecrated host which he holds up broken before the people in a visible sign of Christ's body broken on the cross. In the new translation, it will be clear that our participation is a share in the supper of the lamb, the eschatological banquet. All will respond with a phrase that more closely recalls the words of the centurion, a poignant reminder that no one is worthy to receive so great a gift except when made so by Christ.

Usually singing a song to unify hearts and voices, we come forward to receive the body and blood of Christ. We reflect on the humility and love God has for us: that he would become like a drink of wine, like a piece of bread, all to nourish us and draw us close. A scientist can explain the process by which food is digested and this remains an image for us of how God works to offer spiritual strength to our souls. This is so much more than earthly food. It is Christ himself, who has given himself up to feed not only our bodies but, even more importantly, our souls as well.

The Communion Rite closes with the Prayer After Communion. This prayer calls for the fruits of the Eucharist to be evident in the lives of all who have received.

See the General instruction of the Roman Missal (Nos. 80-89) and Chapter 6 in Father Jeremy Driscoll's book, "What Happens at Mass."

PARISH NURSE NOTES: Walk a land that the Lord your God cares for. He watches over it through each season of the year!+ Deuteronomy 11:12NLT

Every 6 months or 15,000 miles, a car is taken in for a checkup and regular maintenance so why don't you do the same for your body? God gave you one body and the responsibility of keeping it healthy and strong. It is up to you to watch over it and pay attention to signs that you need a checkup. If you have a lump in your breast, a mole that changes shape or color, sudden shortness of breath, or stools that are not usual, don't wait. Visit your doctor and have the appropriate screenings to find the problem and the right treatment. The longer you wait, the more advanced a situation or disease will become and the harder it will be to deal with it. Want to know more, call Marybeth Terrell, 301-845-6572.
