

PUBLIC SAFETY V. PROFITS

Studies show that an increase in the number of outlets that sell alcohol has a direct correlation with an increase in consumption. Texans are safer with thoughtful liquor regulation.

There are over 2,500 liquor stores across Texas and each store operates under firm statutes that ensure liquor is sold responsibly and safely.

Several multi-national retail conglomerates want to unravel Texas liquor laws and sell liquor directly to consumers. This would do away with the safety regulations that small, family-owned businesses have enforced for over 80 years.

Texas family-owned businesses put people ahead of profits and respect the importance of regulations related to safe access to a potentially dangerous product.
