EXCEL BUILDERS & BAXT/INGUI:
TOTAL QUALITY CONTROL

Brooklyn, NY September 17, 2009 - Working closely with architect Michael Ingui of the firm Baxt/Ingui Architects, Excel Builders & Renovators Inc. has been selected to replace roughly 40 gothic arched windows in the 157 year old Strong Place Church located at 58 Strong Place in Brooklyn.

The project to convert the brownstone church into a four story building containing 22 luxury condos is due to complete in Winter 2010. Excel Builders was chosen to perform the window replacement due to their expertise in handling precision and fine finish work.

The massive replacement windows will be handmade from Mahogany by manufacturer Tradewood Windows & Doors in Ontario, Canada with some weighing over 2500 pounds each, requiring a crane for installation. The painstaking installation process requires extreme attention to detail and demanded a close collaboration between Excel and Baxt/Ingui during the planning phase to ensure a clean finish, tight fit and a watertight seal. Michael Ingui and Excel President Matthew Goldfine will be visiting the Tradewood factory during the window construction to ensure a high level of quality control.

In addition to the windows, Excel will also be installing five solid Mahogany arched doors, each 2.25" thick as well as four operable quatrefoil windows. "Everyone benefits from a close working collaboration", commented Goldfine. "Baxt/Ingui ranks among the top firms with whom we have worked."

The condos will be marketed by Brooklyn Bridge Realty.
