

Beire Castro

Business Development Executive, Defense Sector

Beire Castro is a Business Development Executive in Peraton's Defense Sector, focused on Army programs and the Huntsville defense ecosystem. He is responsible for strategic customer engagement and growth across key Army modernization priorities.

Beire served nearly 30 years in the United States Army, retiring as a Colonel. His career took him from entry-level Soldier in combat arms formations to senior strategic roles in the Pentagon, including senior military acquisition advisor to the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Chief of Staff of the Joint Acquisition Task Force for COVID-19, the Army's acquisition legislative liaison to Congress, and Deputy Director of Transition at the Rapid Capabilities and Critical Technologies Office. He is a combat veteran with service in Iraq and Afghanistan.

Beire holds a Master of Science from the Eisenhower School at the National Defense University, an MBA from the Naval Postgraduate School, a Bachelor of Arts from East Tennessee State University, and a Certificate in Government Relations from Georgetown University.

He lives in Huntsville, Alabama with his family and remains active in the local defense community.