

Paulette Taylor grew up in Frederick, Oklahoma, and earned her degree in Elementary Education from Oklahoma State University. She spent more than 20 years teaching children from age two through kindergarten before transitioning into school administration. She currently serves on the Leadership Team at a local private school.

Paulette has been an Army spouse to Shane Taylor, an Army Acquisition Officer, for 32 years. During that time, their family has moved 17 times, and is still trying to master an organized move! She has served military families in numerous volunteer roles, including Spouses Club President, ACS Volunteer Coordinator, Soldier and Family Readiness Group member, and Army Family Team Building Trainer.

Paulette and Shane have two children, Chase, who is studying Cybersecurity, and Kirsten, a recent Gonzaga Law School graduate. Outside of work and volunteering, Paulette enjoys reading, crocheting, crafting, and spending time with her family and their two mini Dachshunds, Daisy and Dolly.
