

Sharon Hall Dyess grew up as a military child and has been an Army spouse for over 35 years. During this time, she has faithfully supported the US Army soldiers and their families.

Considering herself to be a “professional volunteer”, her efforts and actions have impacted and improved the lives of many individuals on numerous posts and the surrounding communities. Sharon has served on advisory boards and in volunteer positions working closely with Army Community Services, Veterans Affairs, USO, Department of Defense Schools, American Red Cross, Spouse Clubs, local Woman’s Clubs, Humane Societies, and Art Councils. She was awarded the Decoration for Distinguished Civilian Service by the Secretary of the Army.

Mrs. Dyess has a hidden talent; she is an award-winning Professional Ventriloquist! She and her friend “Richelle” have traveled extensively performing for advertisements, national and state conventions, and a variety of special events. Sharon and Richelle have brought laughter to audiences across the globe.

Sharon is a Miss America preliminary pageant judge, and has judged on the state, local and national levels of international and commercial pageant circuits.

She is married to Major General Robert M. “Bo” Dyess, U.S. Army (Retired). Together, Sharon and Bo are the proud parents of one daughter, Marilyn Elise Dyess.
