

Kelley Perconti

Kelley Perconti is a lifelong educator and advocate for individuals with special needs. She holds a master's degree in Special Education from the University of Virginia.

For many years, she taught children with autism, dedicating her career to serving children who needed support the most.

These days, Kelley volunteers with Pawfectly Delicious, a nonprofit where young adults with special needs make dog treats while gaining the skills, confidence, and independence that help transform lives.

She also raised two wonderful sons, is thoroughly devoted to her two French Bulldogs, and is still married to Phil. That last part has required its own special skill set.
